SERETTO'S SHOT GIVES ARLINGTON HIGH 20 TO 19 VICTORY OVER MEDFORD

Making a beautiful shot in the very last minute of play, Rafe Seretto gave Arlington High a 20 to 19 victory over Medford High hoopers in the local high school gym last night.

The Red and Gray outfit was a heavy favorite before the game but as it turned out Coach Johnson's boys had all they could do to keep the Medford quintet from going back home with a victory. The Arlington team was hard pressed all the way through and today's story might have been a bit different but for the sensational basket tallied by Seretto. Fast playing on the part of the local five went a long way to give Arlington a win.

Medford forced the play throughout the minutes of active play leading by a fair margin at the conclusion of the first quarter 9-1. This lead was lessened by the time the half ended, the score being 12-6, the Blue and White still in front. Arlington closed in rapidly during the fast third stanza and were right on the heels of Capt. Dick Dealy and his Medford mates by the end of that quarter 16-14.

Game Gets Close
A bruising Arlington attack with Ralph Seretto, Capt. Paul Hendrick and Gordon Clark featuring the offense of the concluding period brought the townies on an even basis with the visitors.

Seretto was the big works for the home team tallying a total of five floor goals for 10 points. Coach Brooks of Medford, intermingling his second squad players with his regulars, used a total of 9 players. Gump Gurney, Medford sophomore, flash along with Dick Dealy led in scoring with a figure of 7 points apiece. Gordon Wright, Arlington forward, had an off night with a lone foul basket to his credit, a mere one point.

Staging an uphill battle and coming from behind in the late minutes the Medford Seconds overpowered the Arlington Seconds by the close score 17-13. At the half Arlington Seconds were in front 11-3. The summaries:

SPRINGFIELD GYMNASTS TO PROVIDE THRILLS IN FORTHCOMING SHOW

Arlington sports followers will be thrilled by the breath-taking exhibition offered by the crack Springfield College Gymnastic Team in the Winchester High School gymnasium, next Friday at 8:00 p. m.

The program promises thrills and novelties, fun and comedy. The gymnasts put dance, sword and dive around the horizontal bar, swing and handstand on the parallel bar, and offer a comedy duo that is really worth seeing.

An attractive and unusual feature of the program is the swinging of lighted Indian Clubs in the darkened gymnasium. Three members of the team use prepared clubs with red electric light bulbs on the tips. By adept and whirling motions, these clubs are hurled with lightning like speed, chasing each other around the swingers' bodies. So rapid is the pace that it appears as if the head of the comet catches up with the tail, making fantastic rings of light that cross and hit each other in their dizzy flight. The team pianist adds to the effect by speeding up his playing to a frenzied pitch, and the racing red comets shatter all speed records in their mad attempt to keep pace. The grand climax is reached in a pulsating whirlpool of twisting lines of red lights.

There is an exhibition of mass team-work in Indian Club swinging. With machine-like precision, these men swing polished black and silver clubs in absolute unison. The hurlers go through intricate and involved arm and body movements, creating a graceful, poetic rhythm.

There will be a series of leaping, vaulting, and diving stunts executed by individual team members.

Two Tire Covers Are Stolen From Engineer's Car

James M. Keane, popular Arlington Town Engineer, is quite anxious to get back the two tire covers which were stolen from his automobile while parked opposite 230 Massachusetts avenue yesterday.

Mr. Keane, who lives at 10 Jason court, reported the theft to the local police yesterday. He told police that a chromium-plated tire cover as well as a black metal cover had been stolen from spare tires on his car.

Now, Jim is wondering whether or not it pays to carry a spare. Here's hoping that the thief will have a turn of mind and decide to return the tire covers.

Looking Inside

Most every paper you pick up has notice of some quarrel with the cost of schools.

It's all over! When people see one third their taxes go to schools it makes them wonder.

No one objects to the three R's, it's the frills they wonder at. Would Abe Lincoln have got his place in our hearts on an education of frills?

As a means of reducing school expenses why not go back twenty-five years, look over the curriculum at that time and cut out everything added since.

My belief is a seat for every kid and the best education we can afford.

A new twin-six is great but that old T-model Ford gave us transportation.

SECRETS

Often times some one approaches you, and will say "Here's a secret, do not repeat it, I pray!"

You listen breathlessly, and what do you hear?

A friend's misfortune, rarely a bit of cheer.

If it were a secret you would not be told.

Secrets should be thought, or written in gold.

The word is much abused and always will be.

And I have to smile when such is said to me.

Not what you are, but what you would like to be.

Not what you think, but think you should think, see?

Neither what you've done, for that has been shared, too.

What is yours, and yours alone, is a secret true.

Victim of Enraged Neptune

A picture to wring the heart of a mariner. The "Charter," a British steamer, is shown being slowly battered to pieces on the jagged rocks of Hope Cove, South Devon, after she had weathered a fierce North Sea gale only to crash to her death. The crew managed to save their lives by climbing the 50-foot cliff, from the top of which this photo was made.

OF THRILLING INTEREST TO THE WORLD OF WOMEN.

MRS. LOUISE TUCKER GILES INSTALLED PRESIDENT OF TENT 22, D. OF U. V. C. W.

Sarah E. Fuller, Tent 22, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, held its annual installation at headquarters in United Spanish War Veterans hall.

The installation being a public one the hall was taxed to its full capacity.

The hall was prettily decorated, flags, flowers, and the trophies won by the Tent were placed about. In the rear of the hall was Peter Jacobs and his orchestra.

Mrs. Shirley E. Scribner, president, called the assembly to order, introducing from the platform a Comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic, National and Department guests.

The installing officer of the evening, Mrs. Mattie Reason Tucker, national treasurer, past department president, and Tent secretary, accompanied by a full staff comprised of Past Department Presidents and Department Officers was introduced by the Guide and escorted to their respective stations.

Officers installed for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Mrs. Louise Tucker Giles, Senior Vice President, Miss Ruth E. Ingraham, Junior Vice President, Miss Florence Miller, Chaplain, Mrs. Lucy Sargent, Treasurer, Mrs. Anna A. Delaney, Members of Council, Mrs. Shirley E. Scribner, Mrs. Nellie E. George, Mrs. Nellie Miller, Patriotic Instructor, Mrs. Marion M. Baker, Secretary, Mrs. Mattie R. Tucker, Press Correspondent, Miss Margaret E. Powers, Guide, Mrs. Alma Snow Lindquist, Guard, Mrs. C. Estelle Ingraham, Assistant Guard, Miss Bertha J. Whitely, Musician, Mrs. Mabel C. Baldwin, Color Bearers, Miss Doris Jacobs, Mrs. Nellie Miller, Mrs. Ivaloe Briggs, Mrs. Stella M. Hollis. The names of all appointed committees will be announced by the President at the next meeting, February sixth.

The newly elected President was honored by being installed by her mother, Mrs. Tucker, one of the most widely known national officers. It may also be added, the President is one of the very few women customs brokers in the State, and the only one in Boston being a member of the firm of W. M. Proctor Company, State Street, Boston.

Worthy of note is the fact the three leading officers are daughters of Officers of Tent 22.

The emotions were stirred as Mrs. Stella M. Hollis, past president and Tent color bearer was called to the platform to present to her daughter, Mrs. Scribner, the retiring president, the Past President's gold badge, a gift from the Tent. Flowers were then presented this Past President from her young son, Junior, and from her family also a beautiful bath room set from Tent members.

The newly installed president, Mrs. Giles, presented the installing officer, Mrs. Tucker with a large bouquet of golden yellow roses, National's chosen color. Accompanying these was a gift from the Tent in deep appreciation of the evening's services.

Sydney Giles, husband of the President presented her with a gorgeous bouquet, Mrs. Nellie M. Goodman and Mrs. Harriett Goetz, both past national presidents then presented gifts each to Mrs. Giles, others coming from her mother and brother, George S. Tucker and his wife who were present.

To Mrs. Ivaloe Briggs, past president of Tent 22, and a color bearer, who acted as installing guide of the evening, was presented a gift and flowers from the President. Mrs. Briggs is mother of Mrs. Giles' husband.

To the installing staff were given bouillonieres of ray colors, made by the president, Mrs. Mabel Fuller, of Tent 44, Malden, past department president, in behalf of the staff expressed thanks for the remembrance.

To the sincere regret of all present, no Comrade of Gen. S. C. Lawrence, Post 66, Grand Army of the Republic, was able to attend these ceremonies. The President in announcing the names of the members of her Advisory Board for 1933 expressed her sorrow that, as in the past no Comrade was now able to serve.

Mrs. Nellie M. Goodman, past national president, Mrs. Mattie Reason Tucker, national treasurer, and Anna A. Delaney, past department president, now comprise this board for the present term.

Particularly noticeable was the absence of Brother George S. T. Fuller, who, with Mrs. Fuller is now in the South. Tent 22 bears the name of Mr. Fuller's mother.

Remarks, greetings and congratulations were received from the following guests of the evening: Commander George W. Green, of Boston Post 200, Jamaica Plain, the "Daddy" of Betty Rosa Tent 31, Jamaica Plain, and the "Step-Daddy" of Tent 22; Mrs. Nellie M. Goodman, past national president, Mrs. M. R. "Behavior of Americans" At Fortnightly

An interested audience of Thursday Fortnightly club members and their guests listened to a stirring address by Frank P. Morse, Commissioner of Secondary Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at the Women's clubhouse.

Mr. Morse who spoke on the "Behavior of Americans" stressed the importance of combating misbehavior. The prevalence of crime among the youthful members of society constitutes a serious problem. The home, the church, and the school combined are seemingly inadequate to cope with criminal tendencies in the very young.

Mr. Morse extolled the virtues of simple living, respect for authority and more general and generous support of church endeavors as the avenues of approach to an improved behavior.

Preceding the address of the evening there was a short business meeting. Mrs. Olive C. Gaffey, secretary, presiding in the absence of Mrs. Beale S. Neill, president, who is ill. The meeting was given over to Mrs. Edwina F. Blodgett, chairman of Education and Literature, who introduced Mr. Morse. Mrs. Blodgett also presented Robert Evans in a program of baritone solos which were much appreciated.

Among the guests present were Bertrand Hooper, assistant superintendent of Medford school; Ralph Kendall, principal of the Medford High school and Mrs. Ellen Hayes of the School committee.

Guest Night of Mothers' Club Social Success

The annual Guest night of the Hillside Mothers' club held in Community hall, was a great success.

A complete turkey dinner was served with the members of the committee as hostesses at the various tables, which were decorated in a unique manner.

Following this, the guests congregated in the adjoining hall for a social hour and community singing led by Mrs. B. H. Littlefield with Mrs. A. C. Sprout at the piano.

When the banquet had been cleared away the guests assembled in the larger hall to enjoy an entertainment given by the Nordic Quintet, a group of Swedish professional radio entertainers.

Miss Barbara Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Burns of Adams street gave a talented and generous program being received by the guests with enthusiasm. Her readings consisted of two groups: the first "Biff Perkin's Toboggan Slide," and "Mr. Peebles buys a Hat" were comic selections; while the second, "The Honor of the Family," "Between two Loves" and "Silly Wife" were gay and vivacious.

Following this program, the remainder of the evening was spent in playing bridge or dancing.

About two hundred members and guests enjoyed the friendly hospitality of the Mothers' club, and much credit for the success of the affair is due Mrs. Charles T. ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL

In your left-hand trousers pocket you have the sum of fifty dollars. In your right-hand pocket is another fifty. For a period of time you spend entirely from the left pocket, until the fifty suffers alarming depreciation. Then you begin spending from the right pocket. Would you consider this economy and reduction of expenses? You certainly would not. It is unimportant whether the dollar comes from one pocket or another, whether your left hand or your right hand passes it out.

But, when tax commissions and politicians announce a program of tax reduction, it usually does precisely what has been described above.

It takes a dollar off the property tax and puts another dollar on the income tax. It shifts burdens from an inheritance tax to a sales tax. It discovers intangibles taxes—supposed to lower some other tax, but increases the total volume of tax money taken from individuals and industry. And so it goes.

The average tax reduction program is a farce and misrepresentation. It robs Peter to pay Paul. It does not recognize the fact that there is but one way to lower taxes—to spend less money.

Keep the pocket illustration in mind next time your public officials announce an economy drive. See if they actually do lower the cost of running the government, or simply dip into your other pocket. Then act accordingly.

MAKE 1933 A SAFE YEAR

A publication of the National Safety Council carries an excellent New Year wish: "Three hundred and sixty-five safe and happy days to you for 1933."

If that wish could bear fruit, it would be a magnificent thing for the country. It would save thousands of lives which would otherwise be needlessly destroyed—it would keep for useful purposes the billion or so dollars that is wasted annually—through accidents—it would make for happier and better working conditions, and more efficient industries. Nothing is so destructive to the morale of the worker as a series of serious accidents in his plant.

The safety movement has been making good progress for a long time. There has been a general decrease in the number and severity of accidents—aside from those caused by automobiles.

The careless, reckless and irresponsible driver kills about 33,000 people a year nowadays.

We can make 1933 the greatest safety year in our time. We can do it by giving the little effort, the little thought, the little care, that is needed to make our homes, our places of business and the public highways safer. We can do it by giving consideration to the rights of the other fellow. As individuals, we have the power to save thousands of irreplaceable lives this year—Let's do it!

DID NOT SEEK TO KILL GASOLINE STATION BOY YOUTHS TELL COURT

The three 20 year old youths arrested in Springfield on suspicion of being principals in the holdup of the filling station at the corner of Revere Beach Parkway and Vine street, Everett went to court yesterday, pleaded guilty and were held in $20,000 by Judge Davis. They were charged with assault and battery while armed with intent to rob and with assault to murder Andrew Johnson, 69 Vine street, the attendant.

The prisoners are Valturo Mariani, 21, who claims to reside at Ludlow; John Ferrandi, 19, of 148 Finley street, Revere, and Caroline Minichiello, 20, of 81 Malden street, Revere.

Didn't Intend to Kill

When the trio were arraigned for armed robbery they pleaded guilty but when the complaint of assault to murder was read, one of the trio declared that "we did not intend to kill him." The court ordered the prisoners held in $10,000 each for the grand jury on the armed robbery charged and continued the assault to murder case to Feb. 16th, each also in $10,000, stating that the whole matter could be placed before the Grand Jury.

The police report of the hold-up states that about 9:30 the prisoners appeared at the filling station and that Johnson resisted their demand by heaving a tonic bottle at them. Only one had a gun and he fired one shot which grazed Johnson's head.

Neighbor Calls Police

Robert Dias, who lives next door, heard the excitement and ran into the station to find Johnson just recovering from the effects of shock and the slight flesh wound on the right side of his head. Dias sent in a call for the police and Johnson was sent to the Whidden hospital in the police ambulance. After treatment he was able to go home but because of his nervous condition it was considered advisable for him to remain.

Johnson told the police that he was eating his lunch when a dark sedan drove up to the place. Three men stepped out of the car and walked into the station. The leader was carrying a gun. Johnson remained seated on the barrel and to the reply for money said, "I have no money," whereupon the bandit said "Give us a drink of water." Johnson's reply was to throw a bottle, from which he was drinking. After throwing the bottle Johnson slipped from the barrel and to the floor and this probably saved his life. Th sudden turn was too much for the bandits and they ran to the car and disappeared in the direction of Revere.

Picked Up at Springfield

The police sent out information on the telephone and Thursday about 10:30 a. m. the Springfield police arrested the trio on suspi-

From Charlotte

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

First one and then another of our great countrymen have answered the last call, and it makes us wonder why they must leave this land and go to another.

Recently we read with great sorrow in our hearts, facts concerning the death of ex-President Coolidge who was at one time governor of Massachusetts. Not only does Massachusetts mourn a great ex-governor, but America and the whole world mourns the loss of a great man. He who gave the world all he had, has returned to his creator, to the Land of Good, where all are equal.

Mr. Coolidge treated everyone equal, and he is to be remembered for his dealings with the people of democracy and for his great perseverance. His speeches, although few, were written in a simple language that all could understand.

Death is a wonderful thing, but we do not understand why, until we ourselves have had sorrows. Death is not to be feared because in the eyes of the Lord, we all are created equal.

Mr. Coolidge was to my way of thinking, a man to be looked up to as an ideal for every boy and girl in the club, and now that he is in a better land than the one we are in, we realize that he was a great man. It seems very funny that we are unable to realize these things when such a man is alive, but just the same, it is true. We realize our mistakes after they have passed on.

An old member,
Charlotte Arne.

Yes, Charlotte, Mr. Coolidge was a great man, and all Americans regret his passing. However, as you say, he is in a better land, away from the sorrows and tribulations of this world. Thanks, Charlotte for a splendid letter.

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

I have not written for a very long time, but I will soon make up for it. I am sending in a puzzle of girl's names, which I hope some members will answer soon.

Coolidge Memorial Service In Washington On February Sixth

WASHINGTON — Announcement was made today by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, chairman of the joint committee of the memorial services for Calvin Coolidge, that the details had been arranged. The memorial service will be held at 12 o'clock noon, Feb. 6, in the House of Representatives, where the two branches of Congress will assemble in joint convention.

The Vice President will be the presiding officer of the joint session and the speaker will be Chief Justice Arthur Prentice Rugg of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, a warm personal and political friend of the late President Coolidge. Judge Rugg is a graduate of Amherst college, President Coolidge's alma mater. They were both trustees of Amherst college.

The services will consist of a preliminary musical program by the Marine Band orchestra, invocation by the chaplain of the Senate, selections by the Interstate Male Chorus, presentation of the speaker by the Vice President, benediction by the chaplain of the House of Representatives.

The galleries will be reserved for invited guests. Each member of the Senate and House of Representatives will be given one pass to the gallery.

Invitation has been extended to the Coolidge family, but it is not known whether the members will attend. The President and Cabinet, Supreme Court of the United States, diplomatic corps, chiefs of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and commissioners of the District of Columbia will be specially invited guests.

The proceedings will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting Company on a nationwide hookup.

Police Uncover "Get-Rich-Quick" Scheme In N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—With the arrest and indictment of two New York policemen on charges of kidnaping and extortion, authorities here believe they have uncovered one of the "likeliest rackets" now in operation in these United States.

The get-rich-quick scheme, according to the police theory, is nothing less than the abduction and exacting of tribute from big figures of the underworld, who, themselves at odds with the law, are powerless to seek redress from properly constituted authority.

The accused policemen, Patrolmen John Nevins and Arthur Graef, were seized for the alleged kidnaping of Ernest Schoeling, alias Ernest Smith, who is reputed to be the "pay-off" man for a big rum-running syndicate. Schoeling was kidnaped as he was leaving Federal Court, New York, after he had been convicted on a charge of having bribed Coast Guardsmen to permit the smuggling of liquor.

According to Schoeling's story, he was approached by the two accused policemen, who displayed their badges and "arrested" him. But instead of taking him to a police station, the cops took the rum agent to an East Side apartment where they kept him for two weeks in an effort to extract $100,000 ransom from Schoeling's wife. Although Mrs. Schoeling received the ransom notes she made no complaint to the police, and it was by the mere accident that the authorities stumbled upon the kidnap plot. A detective, at work upon another case, was "tipped" that a gang had "put the snatch" upon a prominent New Jersey bootlegger.

Clever detective work resulted in the arrest of five men, two of whom are the policemen accused of heading the ring. In the meantime, despairing of getting any money out of Schoeling's relatives, the kidnapers had released the bootlegger, who would have kept his own counsel, true to the underworld code governing "equalizers," had he not been taken into custody and grilled into admitting the extortion attempt.

Following the arrest of the kidnap suspects, it was revealed that an ambitious program had been mapped out for a campaign of abduction and extortion among the "big shots" of the underworld and the Broadway sporting fraternity. It was further disclosed that the "snatch," as kidnaping is picturesquely described in the jargon of the underworld, had already been put on several well-known gamblers and other figures whose mode of living overlaps the legal boundary.

Police say that in many cases the victims paid the kidnapers for their release, but in no instance was a formal complaint made to the authorities. It may have been that the underworld itself was biding its time to deal with the extortionists in its own way without the interference of the law.

It will be recalled that the late Vincent Coll was the originator of the scheme for preying on his own kind. For a considerable time Coll pined a remunerative business of "snatching" big-time racketeers and holding them for ransom. No complaint was ever made by Coll's victims, but his activities earned him the title of "Mad Dog of the Underworld."

Versatility of These Radio Entertainers!

Announcers Don Ball and Harry von Zell are both vocalists of no mean ability. Both of them broke into radio as singers who played their own ukelele accompaniments.

Arnold Johnson, whose orchestra is heard with Jack Smith and the Hummingbirds, has written a large number of magazine articles covering a wide range of subjects.

Francis D. Bowman is about as many-sided as they come. On the Saturday night Carborundum program he serves as announcer, program director, continuity writer and is assistant conductor of the 50-piece band. In addition he carries on extensive research for the original Indian legends he narrates and selects the music for the program. He has nothing else to do except serve as advertising manager of the company which sponsors the broadcasts.

Betty Barthell, personality singer featured on the new Chesterfield series, started radio work as a pianist. She has played her own accompaniment on a number of programs.

Dale Wimbrow, featured announcer on the Mills Brothers-Don Redman programs, is a singer with long experience on stage and in radio. He recently pinched a selection on their program when two of the quartet were having their tonsils removed.

Those Boswell Sisters, famed as a vocal trio, are pretty good in the field of instrumental music, too. In fact, they started their entertainment careers playing as a piano-banjo-saxophone trio, and all three are expert pianists.

Morton Downey, tenor, has a reputation as a teller of Irish jokes.

Tess Gardell, better known as Aunt Jemima, is a culinary expert and prepared a special dinner for Dino Grandi and his party when the distinguished Italian statesman was last in this country.

Louis Dean, CBS announcer, has worked in radio as an actor, a singer, an end man in a radio minstrel, and a program director.

The Three X Sister are skilled tap-dancers. They were members of a stage dance team long before they ever thought of vocal harmonizing.

Announcer David Ross is a first rate radio actor and dialectician. His reading of Miss Groot's Jewish dialect version of "Hawatha" on a recent "America's Grub Street Speaks" program brought him a flood of enthusiastic fan letters.

Jay Hanna, who directs the "Buck Rogers" dramatic productions, has proved an able inventor of sound effects.

Ruth Eiting has demonstrated her artistic ability on countless occasions. She designs her own Christmas cards and many of her clothes. It was in an attempt to earn money to help her through art school that Ruth first started professional singing.

Nick Dawson, who plays the part of Jim Norman in the CBS "Magic Voice" presentations, has had poems published in several magazines, including "The Literary Digest." Before becoming a radio actor, Nick had been a scenery painter, a sidewalk Barker, a stage actor, a press agent, a rodeo rider, a cowboy, a newspaper man, and a radio executive. Vaughn de Leath is an amateur chemist and recently applied for a patent on a skin lotion.

Andre Baruch worked as a studio pianist for a long time before he ever thought of announcing, his present occupation. Just the other day Andre substituted for a sick pianist in Fred Berrens' orchestra.

Presents Plays
Of Sing Sing

Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing, the true stories of Warden Lewis E. Lawes' experience with the inmates of Sing Sing Prison, already available to the public in book form and in a motion picture, are to be broadcast over an NBC-WJZ network beginning Sunday, January 22, at 9:00 p. m. E.S.T.

Warden Lawes in person will take a leading part in the broadcast, which will be heard each Sunday evening and which will bring an authentic portrayal of day by day life behind the bars to the radio audience for the first time.

The episodes, taken from Warden Lawes' book, "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," will be presented in the form of dramatized interviews with the famous penologist and will recall his own experiences during 13 years as warden of that most celebrated prison in America.

The title for the radio series, as well as for the book and picture, is taken from the aggregate total of the sentences of the 2,500 men and one woman.

Dr. Klein To Urge "Break" For Small Communities, On Radio

"Small-Town Chambers of Commerce" is the subject of a radio talk to be given Sunday, January 22, from 7:00 to 7:15 p. m. by Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce of the United States. He will speak from Washington over the coast to coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Dr. Klein will uphold the view that students of business matters should not concentrate unduly upon the big industrial centers and money-marts of the country, but should also scrutinize with utmost care the conditions, sentiments, and efforts in the smaller communities. From the well-spring of small-town vigor and intelligence, the Assistant Secretary believes, potent forces for our business recovery are flowing, and are destined to gain in strength.

Dr. Klein will show how such forces find expression through the local newspapers, whether daily or weekly, and through active chambers of commerce in these smaller cities and towns. He will cite numerous instances in which such agencies have rendered remarkable service to their communities in combating unusual perplexities of the depression—overcoming grave local difficulties through energetic concerted efforts. Urging that the small-town chambers of commerce be locally supported, Dr. Klein will discuss their principles, problems, and possibilities for even broader usefulness in the future.

Lists Federal Jobs In Senate

The civil service commission, in response to a request from the Senate, told the world what federal jobs in Massachusetts are available for deserving Democrats. These offices are not under civil service. The list which is exclusive of postmasterhips, contains hundreds of positions. A similar one was compiled for every state in the nation.

The Democrats have not been in national power for a dozen years and the pressure on Massachusetts senators and Democratic representatives for jobs has consequently been great. Today's list tells the job-seekers what they can get. The Massachusetts resume which follows is not complete but it records every important federal position in the state.

In the state as a whole the regular federal appointive jobs start off as follows:

MEDFORD THEATRE

A picture with a background of strange romances and colossal financial and political intrigues, "The Match King," featuring Warren William and the exotic Lili Damita will open Sunday at the Medford Theatre.

Its plot rivals in imagination the wildest fiction and would scarcely be believed were it not that it has a counterpart in real life, the story having been suggested by screaming newspaper headlines that recently shocked both continents when a financial octopus committed suicide. The headlines revealed the world's most gigantic swindle.

Not only does the story, taken from the novel by Einar Thorvaldson, reveal the tremendous schemes for world domination by a financial genius, but it bares his personal romances with women from every walk of life, from the lowest to those in the highest society.

The dominant trait of this character, as portrayed by Warren William is ambition and ruthlessness. After making love to many women, he ever uses them as puppets to further his overwhelming desire for power, regardless of what happened to the victims of his magnetic personality.

The picture has been painted in vivid and glowing colors for the screen through the adaptation of Houston Branch and Sidney Sutherland.

The bill for the first four days of next week in "Rockabye," a story of a woman's love for children and how she would train them to avoid the pitfalls that marked her own life. The usual short subjects are also included on the program.

has 78 attendants at $1,020 to $1,580, and eight cooks at $1,500 to $2,600. The Bedford Veterans' hospital has 135 attendants and cooks, and the Southampton hospital 130, all drawing about the same rates of pay. The Chelsea naval hospital has 43 employees, mostly in the commissary department, drawing from $600 to $1,750. The state has about 300 laborers on the federal rolls, a great majority in Boston. The extension service of the agriculture department maintains 25 agents, paid $1,500 to $5,000, in the Bay State. Two medical directors at $4,000, four surgeons at $2,400 to $3,500 and five assistant surgeons at $2,000 to $2,400. There are also 45 Massachusetts men now in the following service of the state department, getting from $2,500 to $3,000.

The federal land bank for New England has over 20 employees in Massachusetts, their salaries ranging from $5,000 down. The registrar gets $5,000, the receiving appraisers at $4,500, and the chief appraiser $4,580.

The plant quarantine bureau of the agriculture department has 75 agents, drawing from $1,620 to $2,000.

Somerville School Board Ignores Mayor's Limit For Teachers' Salaries

The Somerville School Committee last night, acting on figures for the budget, adopted $1,187,321 as the amount to be paid for school teachers' salaries. This amount exceeds by $127,439 the amount which Mayor John J. Murphy had notified the board he would submit to the Board of Aldermen for this item.

The School Committee also placed in the budget $85,600 for school contingent fund and $9,000 for outside tuition.

Mayor Murphy notified the board some time ago that he would recommend to the board of Aldermen $1,059,882 for school teachers' salaries, $85,000 for school contingent fund and $9,000 for outside tuition.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Start, a government agent, through a term in Sing Sing and on escape, becomes a member of a dangerous narcotic gang, operated by a mysterious Mr. X. He is installed in the home of Mr. Arnold as chauffeur until Henderson is released from Sing Sing. Then Henderson takes Arnold's place and sends Hart out in a plane to get a shipment of dope. As Hart is leaving, Dr. Steiner, another member of the gang, sees him and recognizes him as a government man. Steiner tells Henderson to let Hart bring in the dope and then do away with him. As Hart leaves Arnold's home, he turns Julie Arnold over to the hands of the dope ring and then do away with them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"What did you tell him?" Arnold inquired of his daughter. "Nothing that he didn't know. He told me something that I didn't know—about the business you're in."

Arnold rose to his feet, visibly agitated. "He didn't tell you about the business he's in, did he?" Arnold's voice raised to a high pitch. "I'll tell you. His name is not Quinn—it's Hart. He's a Secret Service man. How do you like that?"

"How do you know?" "Steiner told me I just came from his office. Your friend Quinn is a spy."

"I don't care what he is—he wants to help us, and he will help us when he comes back."

"He'll never come back."

"Julie gripped her father by the arm

Henderson was relieved that Hart had swallowed the bait. "If you stuck around me, Quinn, you'll get somewhere." He patted Hart's shoulder. "Now go lose the plane." Hart was off, and the launch followed the air craft. "When he balls out, turn around and go the other way," Henderson ordered. Even as he spoke, a figure left the airplane and started to drop. Henderson did not wait to see the parachute open. He had the launch turn about and start for shore, smiling contentedly as he thought of another Federal Agent added to the list of those who had sacrificed their lives to the service.

The next morning, Julie, informed that Hart had been killed, turned to Captain Hawkes for assistance. "I imagine that I have risked my life and my father's, too, by coming here, but I just had to do it," Julie spoke with difficulty. "I can't work it out myself. I've tried to reach him, but I was too late."

"My dear young woman, pull yourself together," Hawkes said gently. "Julie, so nervous that she was unable to remain seated, arose and with a note of despair in her voice continued: 'If I could have only found you last night, we might have saved his life.'"

"Whose life?" "Jack's—Mr. Hart's."

"What's that?" Hawkes asked sharply, taking hold of Julie's arm

Quincy Teachers Offer To Contribute Part Of Pay To Welfare

Supt. of Schools James N. Muir of Quincy announced that the school teachers of Quincy had offered to contribute a reasonable portion of their salaries to the Welfare Department of the city. They also offered their "whole-hearted, earnest service to the boys and girls of the city in this period of stress and turmoil."

Last year the teachers gave two weeks' pay with the understanding that other departments would do likewise, but this year the offer is made without any reservations.

Realistic Presentation

Realism was effectively portrayed in a four-act safety play, "A Day With the Moores," at the Osgood school yesterday. When Ethel McNeil as Janet Moore, fearing to be late for school, was the "victim" of a hit-and-run driver, Charles Delpidio, driving a velociped-type automobile, the pupils in the audience were apparently impressed with the dangers attending haste and carelessness. Later, in a school scene, the sound of a siren, and the clang of a bell realistically announced the arrival of the "fire apparatus" at a school "fire," and the importance of orderliness was depicted when Anthony Vitello, as Jim Moore, averted a "panic" among the children.

The cast included: Anthony Vitello, Grayce Thorson, Ethel McNeil, Madeline Wood, Edward Kennedy, Charles Delpidio, Lillian Sabourin, Vivian Rodriguez, Florence Slack, Virginia Grant, Mavis Brown, Arthur Ferraioli, Catharine Wingate, Lawrence Zarella, Harold Williams, John Mantia, Rose Trinkle, Henry Fleming, Marguerite Driscoll, Grace Henderson, Vito Tanzi, and Henry Fitzgerald. The play was produced under the direction of Miss F. J. Cross, grades 5 and 6, and the various scenes were announced by Claire Gibbons.

Pupils from Miss E. C. Doherty's grade 6, John Egan, Harold Spencer, Gordon Alpers, John Hardy, Walter Driscoll and Miles Macaulay, Mrs. Lillian Garland, Mrs. Gertrude M. Nichols, Miss Laura P. Patten, Mrs. Charles H. Phinney, Miss Clarice Richardson, Mrs. Everett W. Stone and Miss Katherine Stone.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, the members listened to a very interesting talk on "Some Old Houses," by Clinton B. Bancroft of Reading. The talk was illustrated by lantern slides, which pictured the changes in the architecture of the old houses, and definitely established the period of erection. Mr. Bancroft's talk was instructive. He, by means of diagrams, proved his statements and showed that many of the houses could not have been built at the time, stated on various matters.

His slides showing the reconstruction of the old Parker Tavern, in Reading, illustrated the vast amount of work entailed.

Mrs. Bancroft operated the projector efficiently and added greatly to the success of the talk. It was one of the most illuminating talks given before the society, and Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft were given a rising vote of thanks by those present.

Mrs. Emma M. Gray, the chairman of the Hospitality committee, who retires to accept services on other committees, was in charge of the serving of refreshments served at the end of the meeting, and was assisted by Mrs. M. T. Nichols and Mrs. Edward J. Gaffey.

The society regrets the resignation of Miss Mary H. Davis, as librarian, her display of books and treasured objects belonging to the society was a feature of the meetings.

The program for the season of 1933, at which prominent speakers will address the group, together with the announcement of the contemplated pilgrimages will be published in a later issue of the Mercury.

HOSTS OF THE FLORIDA COASTS

"Oh, Jack, I never expected to see you again," said Julie.
(Posed by Jack Holt, Constance Cummings and Willard Robertson.)

and looked searchingly into his face as she spoke frantically. "What do you mean?" "They've sent him out on a job to bring some stuff in from a boat by a seaplane—he doesn't know they're wise to him. He'll bring the plane in, but he'll never live to tell about it."

"Oh, dad, why didn't you tell him?" Where does he leave from?" Arnold instinctively glanced around, fearing the presence of the spying Edwards, who, safely concealed, was intently listening. "I can't tell you. I've told you too much now."

"You've got to tell me. He warned me just before he left that you were in danger." "What sort of danger? What did he tell you?" "He told me to get you out of here and quick. It's what I wanted to do all along. We're leaving town, do you hear me? We're going out of the country. I'll take care of that myself. Before I do you've got to tell me how to reach Jack. It isn't too late to warn him—where does the plane leave from?"

Arnold, in a stupor of fear and indecision, automatically replied, "The Aero-Marine dock in Long Island." Julie was out of the house like a flash. She leaped into her roadster and speeded toward the airport; but she arrived too late. Hart had already taken his plane and could be seen gliding over the sea.

Hart secured the cargo and took off in search of Henderson and the launch, which was twenty miles east of Montauk Point.

"Here he comes!" Henderson exclaimed as he detected the approaching aircraft. A few minutes later the plane was alongside the launch.

"Well, that's that, Henderson. All set?" "Just about. But we've got to work fast. I want to get out of here by daybreak."

"What's all the rush?" "We got a tip some Federal men were around when you took off last night. There's a revenue boat cruising around here somewhere—apt to show up at any minute."

"If that's the case I'd better get the plane back right away!" "Oh, no—no, you're not going to get the plane back at all!" "What's the idea?" "There's apt to be a reception committee of Federal men waiting for you."

"Oh, I see." "We've got to lose this plane." "I get you—if it's all right with you." Henderson smiled and shook his head. "No. That's liable to attract attention. We've got a better way. You take her up again, head out to sea a bit, then abandon the plane and bail out in a parachute."

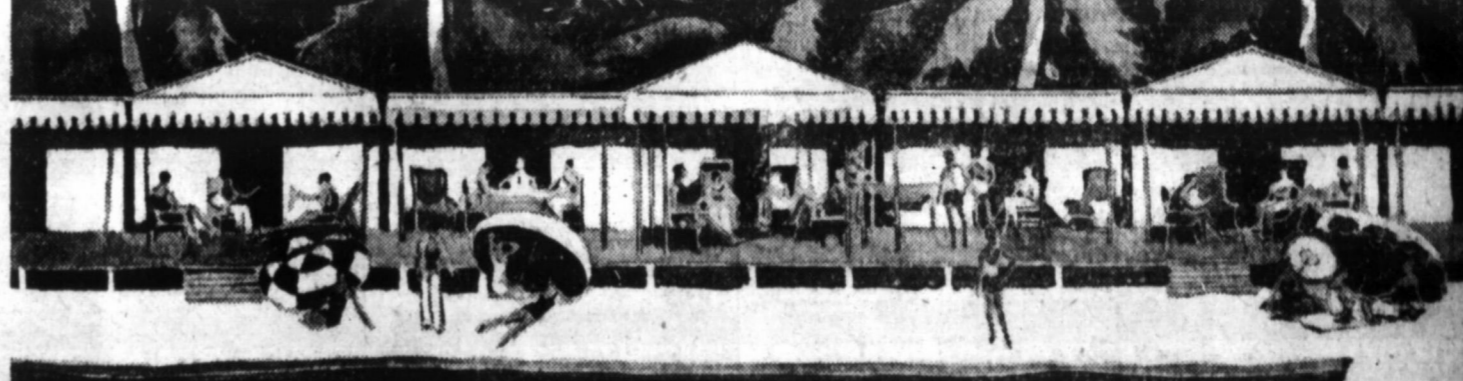

Hart's eyes narrowed thoughtfully. "Bail out?" "Sure—we'll stand by to pick you up." "Oh, I see—I get you." "After which we go down to the office and you get your ten grand!" Hart smiled. "That's the easiest money I ever made."

BACK TO NATURE MAN'S REACTION TO MACHINE AGE

Garden Bureau Predicts Increasing Trend to Country and Suburbs As Leisure Grows

While social adjustments to the machine age will be great and may even reach in degree those foretold by the technocrats, statistics gathered during the last twelve years by the National Garden Bureau indicate that they will take an entirely different direction from that commonly associated with modernism.

Moreover, adjustments have been under way for years, unperceived by most, and they will probably continue at a pace so slow that no violent upsets are likely from this cause. In the opinion of Mr. Burdett, director of the National Garden Bureau, 120 North Wells Street, Chicago, who bases his prediction on a study of population and housing statistics.

"While the work of the world is being performed increasingly by machinery, men are not machines and never will be," said Mr. Burdett. "This is not a flip-pant statement, but one of real significance. Social evolution in the United States during its history has been the result of two chief and conflicting forces, the desires of men, and the compulsion exerted by economic pressure.

"Men have never worked in factories and crowded into slums because they desired to do so, but because they were forced to by the necessities of our industrial system. Our great cities were the product of economic pressure. It is obvious that when the pressure is lifted, by technical improvements, rising standards of living, and increased leisure, life will assume a different pattern, corresponding more nearly to the life that normal men desire.

"Every day some new proof is discovered that men require close and constant contact with nature in order to be healthy. Sunshine, pure air, natural foods, open air recreation, and natural beauty are not only what the doctors order, but what all men desire for themselves and their children. Even while our great cities were reaching their maximum development during the prosperity era, a great hebra back to the country had set in.

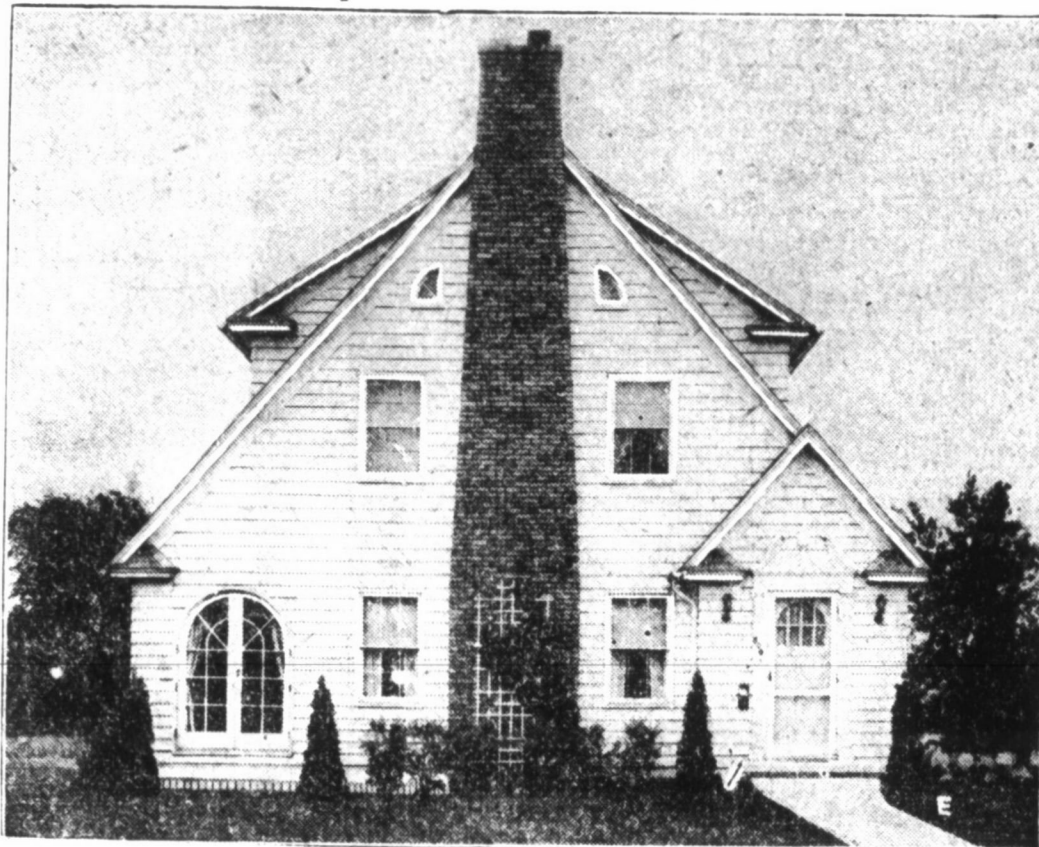

"The only growth in population experienced by the cities of 100,000 population and over in the United States from 1920 to 1930 was confined wholly to their outlying and suburban areas. There was in that period a great movement from rural districts and small towns into cities, but it met an equally large exodus from congested city districts into suburbs. "The decentralization of industry began during the same period and Henry Ford, apostle of mass production, is advocating and developing plans which will break up his great factories into small units, located in agricultural districts, so that factory workers may spend their leisure time in cultivating the soil and beautifying the countryside.

"These are a few of the signs which convince us that gradually in the United States economic pressure is lifting and men are being permitted to seek the kind of life they prefer; that this is not the life of the congested city, but that of the country or the garden suburb; and that the future development of our country will be marked by the decentralization of industry and population, and the development of suburban and rural life on a standard of comfort and beauty such as the world has never seen. Men will not become machines, but will use machines to enable them to live as they desire and were intended to live, in normal enjoyment of the earth's bounty and beauty."

Green peas and sweet corn cannot be purchased with their sweetness, muscled. String beans never are quite so tender and well flavored as when gathered in the home garden a few moments before they go into the stew pan. Radishes are never so crisp and snappy as when fresh pulled.

A Cosy Five Room House

The Eton Cozy Five Room House

"Be sure you're right, then go ahead," should be the motto of everyone planning a home. The Eton, illustrated above, is an example of what can be accomplished when everything is carefully thought out in advance. The color plans show the simplicity of arrangements.

The Eton Is Splendid Example of Particular Care Required When Planning Layout of Small House

The Eton is an attractive little home of five rooms and bath. It is a good example of care that enters into the design and layout of a small dwelling.

Its trim, clean appearance reflects good taste and breeding. The attractive lawn and well-placed shrubbery all add to the ensemble. Within are a series of rooms conveniently arranged to meet the needs of the family. Comfort has not been sacrificed for decorative effects.

For the Average Family This is a home that the average family can build, knowing that they are keeping safely within their means. The cost is not excessive, far less, in fact, than the first estimate would place it. It can be built by a family whose rent bill is in the neighborhood for $80 monthly, and who have already purchased the lot.

Like other houses shown on this page, the Eton has been constructed and is actually in service. It has stood the severe test of occupancy. Having proven itself by use, it is offered as a home worthy of consideration by the family intending to build.

The foundation of the Eton is cement blocks with concrete areas. Each of the steel beams is placed on one side of the broad chimney that divides the front elevation correctly, balancing with those on the other. The chimney itself is built of common brick, surrounded by a double chimney pot. A rose ladder at the base breaks the bareness of the brick surface and softens the lines.

To the extreme left is an arched French double door opening onto a brick terrace. At the right a concrete walk leads to the front stoop of the colonial motif. The broad front door is paneled, containing plate glass lights.

Within the attractive front entrance lies a reception hall approximately eight feet square. A staircase leads to the floor above from the hall. A closet handle placed beside the stairs is large enough to hold the umbrellas, overcoats, rubbers and other articles that normally are stored in a hall closet.

The lighting fixture of the living room is modern. The chandelier hanging from the ceiling may be used to light the room, but the occasion requires central lighting. Six side wall brackets are another source of light, while three electrical outlets in the mopboards provide means for using floor lamps.

Beyond the living room is the sun room, equipped with an abundance of windows so that in the summer these may be thrown open to catch the breeze, while in winter the room may still be a bright, cheerful lounging place, yet comfortable because of its heating arrangements.

The Kitchen Arrangement The kitchen is approached through a swinging door. This room is not large, but it is well arranged. All the tools of the housewife are within a step or two. At one side of the room under a window is the sink of white enamel with a swing faucet delivering both hot and cold water. The drip-board is of the same material. An ice box with outside ice stands in the corner near the entryway. Opposite is the gas range with a wall light over it. The usual hanging electric light is in the center of the room.

The service entry has doors leading to the kitchen and living room. Off the entry is a closet where the housewife can store her brooms, mops, vacuum sweeper and other conveniences of the household. From here, too, a stair leads to the basement.

The Master Chamber Off the small hall at the top of the stairs leading to the second floor is the master's chamber, a large room, 20 feet long by 12 feet wide. Two double hung windows across the front and a pair of out-swinging casement windows at the side give cross ventilation, which is needed on hot summer nights when often the faintest breeze is welcome.

The second chamber on this floor is 12 by 13 feet, a convenient size. Off each room is a closet lighted by electricity. The use of electric lights in the closets is one of the many touches that make the Eton stand out from the average house.

Modern balanced plant foods require different methods in application from those customary with the various miscellaneous materials formerly used to replenish fertility in soil. Being far richer in food elements, the modern plant food supplies highly concentrated nourishment, and in a form which is quickly available to plants. Instead of requiring a long period of decay or chemical change before it can be used.

It is necessary to take precautions in applying these concentrated foods to prevent waste, or injury from overfeeding should always be guarded against; it is the general experience that the more frequent use of smaller quantities is far better than unduly heavy applications.

Another point is to apply plant food early in the season. The first application should be available to the plants just as soon as growth starts. In the case of established lawns, trees, shrubs, and perennial plants, this means immediately deep frost comes out of the ground in the spring.

Never apply plant food when the grass is wet. Do not put it on the leaves or stalks of vegetables, or flowers or in direct contact with bulbs, seeds or the roots of plants. Sprinkle the grass thoroughly after application is made.

If water is not available, run the back of a rake or drag a doormat or some similar object over the lawn to brush the plant food off the grass leaves and down to the roots. Sweeping with a broom will also accomplish this.

Plant food may be applied by carefully broadcasting by hand, or with a kitchen collander, or by using a plant food spreader. Several low priced food spreaders are now on the market designed for use on the lawn and in the home garden.

The man with the HOE says—

If you forgot to lay in a supply of soil for early seed boxes last fall, chop up a few frozen clods is necessary and place it in the cellar to thaw out and dry out gradually. Don't try oven drying, as the heat will make the soil hard and lumpy. It may be baked after it has been thawed and dried slowly to kill weed seeds or insects that may be in the soil.

Every family with a baby or young children should grow a vegetable garden to provide fresh green vegetables of the highest quality, which can be obtained fresh only from the home garden.
